“Self-reliance with a sense of community . . . ”

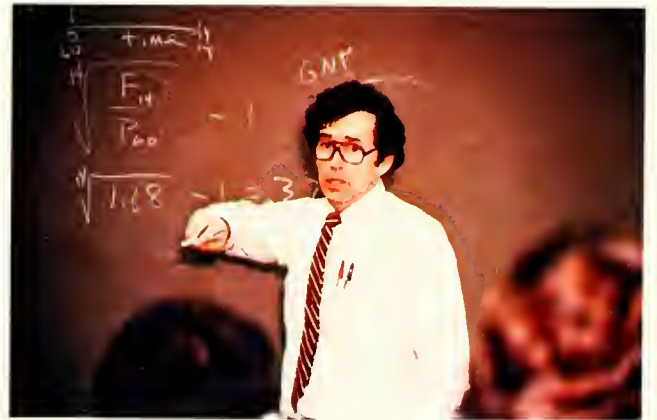

The most searching question that can be asked of a college is “What sort of person does it produce?” In its statement of the purpose of the college drafted in 1955-56, the Faculty and Board of Trustees stated that “Millsaps College has as its primary aim the development of men and women for rounded lives of useful service to their fellow men, their country, and their God. The desired result is an intelligent, voluntary dedication to moral principles and a growing social consciousness that will guide him into a rich, well-rounded Christian life with ready acceptance of responsibility to neighbor, state, and church.” The 1987-88 school year was one of introspection where students examined both their own actions and the policies of the Administration. They took a critical look at Millsaps College to see if it was meeting its intended purpose. This annual is an attempt to piece together the facts and bring some understanding to the events of the past school year.

In college there is a tension between the individual and the community. The college should be committed to meeting the needs of the individual, but it should also be guided by the concerns of the community. Students should be developed into independent, self-reliant human beings, yet they should also learn a sense of community.

“Communication is the key to community . . . ”

The college should remind students that there is an intellectual and social community to which they are connected, both within the student body and the outside world. In order to function effectively in this community, the student needs to see the relationship between what he learns and how he lives. He should look for the underlying meaning of what he learns and seek to apply that knowledge to the dilemmas of everyday life.

Millsaps seeks to build community from the moment that the student arrives on campus, and much preparation goes into making the transition from high school to college a smooth one. It was announced in October that, based on the findings of a study group, changes in Rush were being studied. After students expressed dissatisfaction with the decision, President Harmon agreed in November to postpone any decision on Rush. In February, the Task Force on the Freshman Experience was established in order to present a recommendation for a restructuring of the freshman experience. The desired goal is to bond freshmen to Millsaps first and then to other aspects of the school.

It is important in any community to have open lines of communication between all its members. On October 27, a “Call the Bluff” student rally was held to protest the growing communication gap between administration and students. SBA President, Mark McCreery was quoted by the P & W as saying, “It is time to say no to a management style with no concern for our goals and objectives.” The specific complaints dealt with the closing of the children’s day care center and the rescheduling of Rush Week, but the underlying problem was that in which Continued on page 8 the students were governed by the administration. The rally received coverage in the Jackson Daily News and the Clarion Ledger, as well as being covered by local television. The Effective Communication Committee was established to prevent a totally downward flow of communication from the administration to the students, and the All-College Council was established to give all interested people a chance to express themselves. Both were designed in an effort to bring the students, faculty, and administration together.

Millsaps showed a commitment to finding ethical solutions to community problems when it held the Consultation on the Status of Minority Students. Its goal was to increase the number of minority students at Millsaps and enhance their experience—first by finding out why so few minority students were then present and then by finding solutions to the problem. A steering committee was established after the consultation to look into different areas of the situation. The consultation was made possible by a grant from The Board of Higher Education and the Ministry of the United Methodist Church.

One event which recognized the importance of what goes on outside the classroom was the Alcohol Awareness Week held after the return from Fall Break. It was intended to promote alcohol education, decision making skills, and positive peer influence. The week served as the highlight of a year-round emphasis on alcohol education by Millsaps and the importance it places on the individuals' decisions of use or non-use.

Truly educated people must gain perspective by seeing themselves in relation to others. The organization known as the Cross Cultural Connection attempted to provide a sense of belonging for international and minority students by offering a forum for the exchange of cultural ideas, knowledge and values. CCC was responsible for sponsoring such things as a Friday Forum entitled “Slavery and Freedom: Comparing the United States with South Africa” and the visit of Arun Gandhi. An initial sign-up list of fifty-six people showed how Millsaps students want to learn outside the classroom. Continued on page 11

“Teachers play an important role . . . ”

Millsaps got involved with the outside community through the Student Symposium entitled “Changing Values in America,” the symposium dealt with the question of whether the American value system was changing or if it still reflected traditional American concepts and values. The symposium featured a range of speakers including Dr. Ronald Sider who spoke on “Evangelical Theory of Public Policy;” Reverend William Fore who spoke on “The Replacement of the Modern Day Value System;” and Reverend Donald Wildmon whose topic was “People Change, Values Don’t.”

In developing a sense of community at Millsaps, teachers play a vital role. While having command of the material which they teach, the Millsaps faculty also had an enthusiasm about the abilities of their students and their potential for understanding ideas. The faculty also steps-out into the intellectual community outside Millsaps. In 1987 one teacher in particular showed command of his field of history by writing a book entitled, The End of the Conservative Era. Dr. Robert McElvaine, a professor here since 1973, looked at popular movies, music and television to predict a swing back to liberalism.

The broader social community also played an important role at Millsaps this past year. The Millsaps Tower was the gift of McCarty Farms in honor of the company’s founder and chairman, H.F. McCarty, Jr., his wife and their children. President Harmon offered the hope that “the essential idea of Millsaps College and the inspiration which comes from education will always be what is remembered of Millsaps and symbolized by the Millsaps Tower” during a ceremony for the dedication of the Bell Tower on October 15, 1987.

“The aim of the undergraduate experience . . . ”

The Franklin W. Olin Hall of Science was dedicated during Founder’s Day celebration on February 13, 1988. Millsaps competed against 93 other colleges and universities to be the first college in Mississippi to receive a grant from the Olin Foundation. The $5.5 million grant was evidence of Millsaps’ high degree of academic excellence. The building makes available sophisticated equipment for undergraduate use.

It is possible to list many different purposes for a liberal arts education. Some have said that education is something that is left when we have forgotten what we learned. It is frequently said in regard to the classical education of British universities that “the truly educated person should feel at home in the world anywhere in the world.” In a book entitled, The Undergrad- uate Experience in America, Ernest Boyer concludes that “the aim of the undergraduate experience is not only to prepare the young for productive careers, but also to enable them to live lives of dignity and purpose; not only to generate new knowledge, but to channel that knowledge to humane ends; not merely to study government, but to help shape a citizenry that can promote the public good.” This is the goal for which Millsaps is striving.

Presenting the Olin . . .

The Olin Building is the product of a seven-year quest by the Science Faculty and Administration of Millsaps College. It was funded by a $5.5 million grant by the Franklin M. Olin Foundation which is headquartered in Minneapolis, Minnesota. The interesting thing is that the Olin Foundation gives most of its grants to schools in the Midwest and Northeast; Millsaps is one of the two Southern Schools that has been awarded a grant. When the Olin Foundation funds something like a science building, they insist that the building be furnished with new equipment. The new equipment was founded by a grant from the National Science Foundation and money from the school. The new equipment cost a total of $400,000 and includes the most advanced technology available to any college or university. Dr. Allen Bishop asserts that all of the hardware and software "are on the cutting edge of technology." The list of chemistry equipment, which sounds like it is straight out of Star Wars, includes a Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectrometer, a Fourier Transform which identifies organic compounds, an Atomic Absolution Spectrophotometer which analyzes metal ions in solutions, a graphite furnace, and fourteen new computer terminals to name just a few. The new equipment for the Biology Department includes an electron microscope which has a magnification capability of 200,000X, an Environmental Chamber, equipment which separates genes, physiology equipment which is more advanced than that of the University Medical Center, and much, much more. The Olin Building itself is well-thought-out and well built. In contrast to what usually happens to other colleges and universities, the Biology and Chemistry faculty at Millsaps were allowed a great deal of input in the design and construction of the building. All of the lecture rooms are very comfortable and quite luxurious, and the laboratories are top-notch in design and function. The faculty states that the building is a "great deal" in terms of usability, space, and opportunities for research. Dr. Allen Bishop said that the Olin Building is "the most advanced undergraduate science facility in the nation, and it's exciting to be able to do all the things we wanted to do, whereas in the past, all we could do was wave our hands and talk about it." It is unfortunate, however, that even with all this wonderful equipment, the professors cannot conduct any appreciable amount of research because they are so encumbered by the excessive number of teaching hours the administration requires them to teach.

In Search of the Truth

by Kimberly Waggoner

A questioning, critical spirit searches for truth. This attitude is at the heart of the Millsaps' liberal arts education, a school of thought which balances the importance of one's scholarship with one's social growth. It is no surprise, then, that the faculty and the students of Millsaps actively question established ideas both in and out of the classroom.

Currently, an example of this spirit is seen in the formation of the "Consultation on the Status of Minority Students at Millsaps," a committee which responded to the inquiries presented by various groups in 1987 concerning the treatment of Millsaps' minorities. The Consultation that was formed attempted to deal with many problems which face minorities daily, such as alienation, a lack of support structures, and the seemingly weak recruitment procedures for minorities. The Consultation, which met on October 9 and 10, 1987, was directed by the distinguished United Methodist Church leader Reverend Jack Loflin. It was attended by one hundred and sixteen representatives of various constituencies of the college: the six academic divisions, Board of Trustees, Executive Committee of the college, the Millsaps Alumni Association, the Boards of Higher Education of the two United Methodist Conferences in Mississippi, and members of campus organizations. The Millsaps' Chaplain Don Fortberry, the overall director of the Consul-

"The silver trump of freedom had roused my soul to eternal wakefulness. Freedom now appeared, to disappear no more forever. It was heard in every sound, and seen in every thing. It was ever present to torment me in a sense of my wretched condition. I saw nothing without seeing it, I heard nothing without hearing it, and felt nothing without feeling it. It looked from every star, it smiled in every calm, breathed in every wind and moved in every storm."

—Frederick Douglass

tation, states the scope and purpose of the group: "To me, the central purpose of this organization is to increase the number of minority students and to effectively minimize the racial and ethnic differences that limit full participation in the college."

At the meeting, the various comments which were submitted revealed that people at Millsaps are divided by race just as people are elsewhere. Clearly, a rift that separates Millsaps, Mississippi, and the United States is based upon the color of one's skin. However, the self-worth of an individual should be emphasized instead of irrationally concentrating on the race to which one belongs. Many at Millsaps question the artificial barriers drawn by race and ask just exactly why such barriers exist. In addition to simply questioning these problems, members of the Consultation have set immediate and long-range goals to destroy these barriers.

Unmistakenly, any solution which was proposed at the Consultation must occur through a change in attitude and not only in reformed policy. Although policies of this committee, the Admissions Department, or the Administration itself may be written to help minorities, they will face opposition unless a change of heart occurs first. This involves a partnership between the policy-makers themselves and the Millsaps' population: if we are to become a community, one cannot override the other. Junior Edie

Hall emphasizes the importance of continuing this open attitude: "Even though the Consultation is over, we must stay aware of this problem to make any changes for the future. We can work to immediate goals to plant the seeds of the long-range goals. Let's not let this issue die."

Presently, the task groups of the Consultation's Steering Committee work to change existing problems on minority students. The members of the Consultation, along with others on campus, have an opportunity to make a difference for the future. Just as the treatment of minorities was questioned in the past, today students can question their own attitudes to see if they are willing to risk a change.

A Millsaps Tradition

by Johnny
Mitias

I the day-to-day activities at Millsaps, many students take for granted the fact that most professors on campus are available to them to answer questions or solve certain situations in which the student may require assistance. The professors take time from their massive amounts of paperwork, grading and preparation for upcoming classes in order to assist the students. This type of direct assistance cannot be found in any of the larger state schools or even in those "elitist" schools. In those types of places, one must work with a teaching assistant, or worse, fend for oneself. However, at Millsaps, teacher-student relations are much warmer, friendlier and helpful. Most professors are more than willing to provide any assistance the student requires in order to smooth the way for the pupil's quest for knowledge.

The professors usually know all their students' names, and in time, learn each of their students' strengths and weaknesses and adjust to them accordingly. This type of flexibility is rare at any campus, yet it is here on our campus and flourishing. Although Millsaps has been receiving a large amount of national attention, it has not turned into an academic leviathan in which the student becomes relegated to a mere number or ignored for purposes of research in order to gain further prestige. A visiting student once remarked upon how well professors knew their students by name and how often the professors would stop and actually converse with their pupils. It was amazing to the visitor who happened to attend a big-name school in the North that the professors did not treat their students in a condescending manner. What was more perplexing to the student was that the professor actually noticed the absence of a student and inquired into the reason of his absence. In the visiting student's school, the teachers "did not seem to care."

Millsaps' good teacher-student relations are not due solely to a low teacher-student ratio because there are many schools that offer comparable ratios but still do not provide the necessary contact between the teacher and the pupil. The good relations are due mostly to the type of attitude that the Millsaps Community produces. This attitude is one of sharing, consideration, and the pursuit of knowledge. Of course, this attitude is fueled mostly by the professors because they understand that this is the best environment for learning. Most students also understand that this is the best way to learn and reciprocate the professors' openness by utilizing the various opportunities for direct contact with their educators.

Carol Woods, a transfer student from Baylor, feels that the faculty-student relationship here at Millsaps as compared to that of Baylor is one of more personal relationships and added attention. "... Because the classes are smaller here, the interaction between faculty and student is more one-on-one such that a better, stronger relationship can be established." Professor Bavender, a perfect example of a teacher who will go out of his way to help a student, expresses our strong student-faculty relationship as a "tradition here at Millsaps". Professor Bavender goes on to say that one of our basic traditions is a concept known as "the total student." The teachers at Millsaps really care about the student in a total sense and this feeling is not just a one-sided one; the student gets to know the teacher in the same personal sense. This type of teacher accessibility is important to us as students, because it is vital to our studies and to our experience here at Millsaps.

THE TOP TEN

It's Friday . . . It's Your Last Class . . .

Slowly, the minute hand churns toward the sound of the bell, and at last the industrious Millsaps student is free! As he flees from his classroom with suitcase in hand, the average pedestrian should be cautioned not to get in his way, for it may prove to be fatal. The small number of weekend escapees escalates into a large mass which descends from the dorm stairwells to "jump the iron gate."

Those who opt to brave a weekend of desolation may have difficulty entertaining themselves. Luckily, a small circle of Millsaps experts were glad to make suggestions of what to do after the masses have packed up and left.

Here are our suggestions:

1. Call home and rationalize your need for more money.
2. Attempt to enter the movie theatre for a cut rate by showing the employee your Millsaps I.D.
3. Answer the lobby phones which usually go unanswered.
4. Experience a panoramic view of Millsaps from the belltower.
5. Assemble your remaining neighbors and mercilessly terrorize your R.A.
6. Calculate your social deviance task.
7. Re-organize your Domino's Pizza coupons.
8. Acknowledge those clothes that have been multiplying in a corner of your closet.
9. Take a road trip to the state border.
10. Experience what being a "dorm rat" is like.

Some other suggestions made were:

- Spend an entire role of quarters on pool games at C.S.'s.
- Plot a secret mission.
- Sit in the Millsaps-Wilson Library wishing that you had escaped for the weekend.
- SLEEP!

“Changing Values In America”

The topic for this year's Student Symposium, "Changing Values in America," proved to be a very intriguing and informative program. Sponsored by the Student Body Association, the two-day forum featured such well-known speakers as Dr. Ronald Sider, Reverend William Fore, and Reverend Donald Wildmon, a native of Tupelo, Mississippi and a graduate of Millsaps.

Each of the speakers added a new dimension to the American value system as they projected their own views and experiences into the forum. The first speaker, Dr. Ronald Sider, is a professor of Theology at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary and is the author of fifteen books, the most recent of which is What Does It Mean to Be Pro-Life? His speech, entitled "Evangelical Theology of Public Policy" raised many questions concerning social justice. Sider promoted the idea that there is a need for a new vision in today's society; an immediate solution to such a problem is to implement knowledge of the Bible into today's society in public policy. Acknowledging that it is impossible to separate public life from ethical values, Sider emphasized the idea of shaping law with Scriptures. The second speaker, Reverend William Fore, the Chief Executive Officer of the Communication Commission of the Churches of Christ, spoke on the "Replacement of Modern Day Value System." The central issue to him was how religion affects the mass media. Fore presented the view that television, as one of the most powerful institutions in history, was competing with religion for our very souls. Furthermore, the final speaker, Reverend Donald Wildmon, Executive Director of the American Family Association, entertained the topic of "People Change, Values Don't." Wildmon concentrated on two value systems, the secular and the Christian. He portrayed Christianity as the superior system because it has a point of reference, Christ, while the secular system lacks such a reference. According to Wildmon, a value-free society is a valueless one and Christianity represents the only reliable value system. Clearly, the symposium speakers featured varying religious and political perspectives on the American value system.

This year's Student Symposium was very stimulating as it challenged our personal value system and forced us to see how America is changing its values. Now, we are more aware of what an effect television has on us or just how powerful public policy can be. It is up to each of us to formulate our own opinions on these perceptions and to decide how to apply this information to our lives. As the audience walked away feeling angry, perplexed, or concerned, the true purpose of the symposium was fulfilled in an educational experience that is inherent in the liberal arts tradition.

Homecoming 1987 took place on the weekend of October 10 when Millsaps played Central Methodist University. On Wednesday, October 8, it was 50's say and everyone dressed up to show their spirit. Thursday was 60's day and the Homecoming Queen was elected. Friday, there was a Pep-Rally in the bowl starring "Major P.I. sponsored by the cheerleaders. Later that evening a bonfire was held at the golf course. Saturday, Millsaps played Central Methodist and beat them 28-6. A dance was held in the bowl following the game. FIRST ANNUAL FALL FEST

Fall Fest 1987, sponsored by the S.B.A., was organized this year to be to the fall what Major Madness is to the spring. The idea being to invite the entire campus: greeks, independents, faculty, and whomever, for a fun-filled weekend complete with volleyball, tug o' war, bands, and, oh yes, food right here at Millsaps. The Valley Food Service did a super job of catering a meal to the student body on that Saturday afternoon on Fraternity Row. The display was splendid: fruit, cheese, croissants, etc. The guys played tug 'o war with the losers landing in a gigantic mud pit. The girls oohed and ahed over the amount of muscles (or lack of them) displayed. Volleyball was also a tremendous success with only nightfall and the coming of the band ending the suspenseful games. Girls played this game too, and it was rumored that Betsy Flowers had a serve to beat anyone's. The Valley Food boys had quite a team as well; however, they did not sport the attire that William Wadsworth's team did. After Volleyball the campus returned to its respective dorms to get cleaned up for the party that night. Originally, the band was scheduled for the bowl, but the threat of rain moved the party to none other than the Pi Kappa Alpha house. This was sure to be a swingin' time. So cologne was splashed on, and whatever else to attract that special person, and off everyone trucked to the Pi Kappa Alpha house. Over all the party was good. People danced, laughed, and occasionally sang. But much to everyone's dismay, security showed up in full force to chaperone the party. Vice-President of the S.B.A. David Laird went running out to save the day but was unsuccessful. Someone had leaked to campus security that there might be several delinquent juveniles drinking alcoholic beverages. Well, much to everyone's surprise, there did turn out to be a few illicit beverages being consumed by students. Security saw to it that these students' I.D.'s were impounded, and a $15.00 fine slapped upon them. The party ended. With puppy-dog faces, the Millsaps students said goodnight to one another and walked wearily home. Their hopes and dreams were shattered because it was only 12:30 and they had not had a chance to make their move.

Overall, the weekend was a success. Only a few minor incidents led some to be disappointed. Keep those parties rolling S.B.A.!

Major Madness

The second annual Major Madness was another smash hit this year. Not only were the parties well-attended and enjoyed, but they also served as a well-deserved finale to the school year. The activities which lasted from Wednesday, April 13th to Saturday, April 16th, provided a comfortable way for Millsaps students to meet prospective students. Undoubtedly, Major Madness provided a much-needed outlet for students about to enter final exams or Seniors who had just completed comprehensive exams.

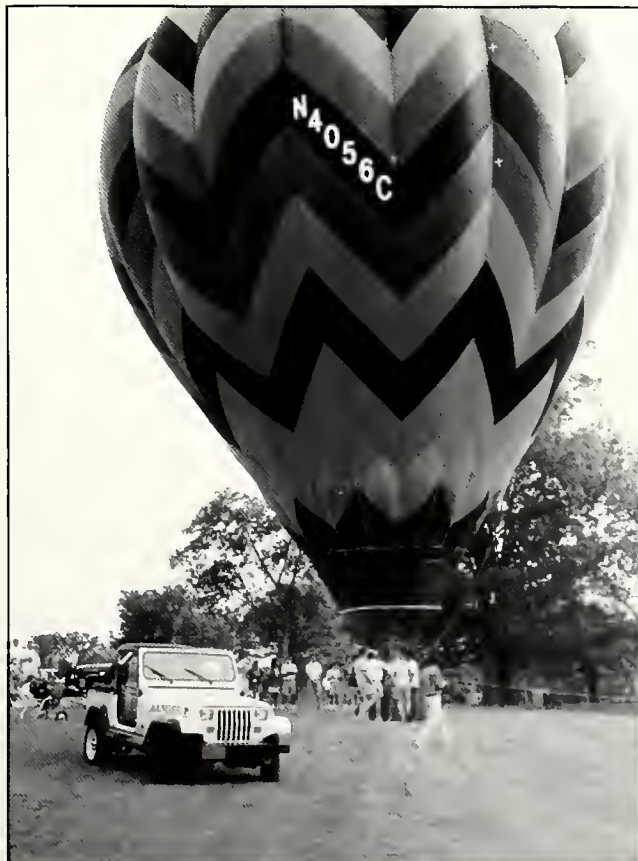

The list of activities ranged from the first annual Talent Show on Wednesday to a party and band in the Bowl on Saturday. Sponsored by the SBA Spirit Committee, the Talent Show packed the Recital Hall and showcased acts such as "A Day in the Life of Stupid Affairs", by the Student Affairs Office; the song "I Want a Girl" by "The Four Saps"; and a medley arrangement by Price Williams. Thursday's and Friday's activities included lunch, virgin margaritas, and music in the Bowl. Also on Friday, the Millsaps Players presented their final play of the year, "Ring Round the Moon." A local band, Jett Screamer, was featured at the Grove Apartments in a party that night. Saturday's activities lasted from morning until midnight. First, Panhellenic hosted a tea in the Olin Building for prospective Millsaps girls and campus Independents. This was followed by a day-long volleyball tournament on frat row which was accompanied by a jazz/blues band and an outdoor shish-ka-bob dinner. Major Madness' last party on Saturday presented the band Ben Freed and IBM in the Bowl.

Supported by SBA, Panhellenic, and IFC, Major Madness proved to be a great success again this year. The variety of activities and parties provided a great atmosphere for mixing the visiting high school students with Millsaps students. Clearly, this four-day-long party is quickly becoming a popular tradition at Millsaps.

Millsaps Players Present "Our Town"

The sixty-fourth season of the Millsaps Players began with the production of "Our Town." This classic play, written by Thornton Wilder, enjoyed a popular four-day run in the Christian Center. The thirty-four member cast, directed by Lance Goss, wore early twentieth century costumes as they portrayed their characters.

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize, "Our Town" depicts the life of a New Hampshire village with its unique blend of humor, beauty, and pathos. The play is set against the background of centuries of time, social history and religious ideas. The Stage Manager gives an overview of the drama as he says: "This is the way we were in our growing-up and in our marrying and in our doctoring and in our living and in our dying."

Set in 1901, the dramatic situation is in Grover's Corners where the Gibbses and the Webbs are neighbors. During their childhood, George Gibbs and Emily Webb become close playmates. As they grow older, however, their relationship evolves into a more romantic one. Over an ice-cream soda, George proposes to Emily. Their happiness is short-lived, unfortunately, because Emily dies suddenly thereafter. In a very moving scene, the peace and quiet of death is portrayed in a way that cannot be fully understood by the living.

Below: Si Cromwell (Thomas Webb) and Howie Newsome (Christopher Donovan) Talk on the street with Constable Warren (Joe Branton). Right: Rebecca Gibbs (Angela Lazzarus), George Gibbs (Richard Read), Mrs. Gibbs (Kim Peil), and Dr. Gibbs (Seth Holliday) pose for a family portrait.

Now you know: that what it was to be alive. To move about in a cloud of ignorance; to go up and down trampling on the feelings of those — of those about you. To spend and waste time as though you had a million years. To be always at the mercy of one self-centered passion, or another. . . . Ignorance and blindness!

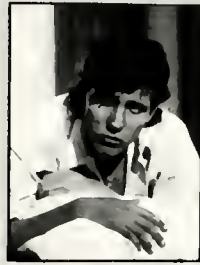

Dr. Gibbs has an early morning talk with Joe Crowell (Wright McFarland).

“Years from now — when you talk about this — and you will — be kind.”

— Laura Reynolds

“Tea and Sympathy”, the second performance of the season, was another great success for the Players. This love story written by Robert Anderson was performed November 17th through the 21st. A special addition to this play was the appealing set designed by Wright McFarland as a Senior Project in Theatre. This particular set, which seated the audience on the stage with the actors, made this intimate and entertaining production even more enthralling.

“Tea and Sympathy’s” cast of ten acted well in a play which covers issues and questions that are relevant today. Set in England in 1953, the play deals with the search for one’s identity. “Tea and Sympathy”, which played on Broadway for two years, is reviewed by critics as one which “can simply and briefly be described as a triumph.”

The drama of the play takes place in an English boy’s school dormitory in 1956. Tom Lee is a forlorn boy who is hazed by his classmates because he has played girl’s parts in amateur theatricals. Their ridicule intensifies to the point of persecution. Determined to prove his manliness, the youth goes out for a night on the town with the neighborhood tramp. To Tom’s dismay, this proves to be his downfall for he only runs home from his date. At school, he is now completely shunned as one who is truly worthless. Only the headmaster’s wife, beautiful and understanding, offers Tom sympathy in a delicate final scene.

Shakespeare's "The Tempest"

"O brave new world that has such people in't."

— Prospero

"The Tempest", the Player's third play, was produced February 25th through the 28th. Directed by Lance Goss, this drama used a cast of twenty-three to recreate this well-known Shakespearean play. The Mill-saps Players did a fine job in executing this romantic fantasy.

Considered by many scholars to be Shakespeare's final play, "The Tempest" is a work of fantasy and courtly romance. Its characters include a wise old magician, his attractive, naive daughter, a gallant young prince and a scheming brother. This classic play contains elements of a fairy tale in which ancient wrongs are righted and true lovers live happily ever after. Also present are elements of a poetic atmosphere and allegory. No other of Shakespeare's drama reveals so much of the author's reflection of life itself.

The plot begins at sea with a storm and ends on a note of serenity and joy. Prospero, the banished Duke of Milan, and his daughter Miranda live on an island with a group of spirits and nymphs. During a violent tempest at sea, a ship wrecks on their island. The occupants of the ship include the King of Naples, his son Ferdinand and the usurping Duke of Milan, Prospero's brother. The romance and mystery of the drama concerns the courtship of Miranda and Ferdinand and Prospero's efforts to regain his noble title.

Prospero comforts Miranda, his daughter, in the stillness of nature.

“Ring Round the Moon” a Comedy

“I fall in love as a matter of routine. But not ludicrously like my brother.”

— Hugo

The 1987-88 Millsaps Players season ended with the comedy, “Ring Round the Moon.” The play was given April 13th through the 17th. This light, humorous production was a pleasant conclusion to a highly successful year for the Players.

Christopher Fry’s adaptation of this Jean Anouilh play, “Ring Round the Moon,” has been an outstanding triumph both in England and in New York. The London Times rates it as “an enchanting little fairy tale of laughing . . . grace, its sentiment masked by cool, brittle, eloquent mockery.” This comedy is a delight as it reflects on the moods of wistful romance, satire and fantasy.

The plot develops around the author’s ideas about love. A fable about twin brothers is invented to illustrate the plot. Frederic, shy and sensitive, and Hugo, heartless and aggressive, are the main characters who direct the action. Frederic is in love with a hussy who is in love with Hugo. To save Frederic from an unhappy marriage, Hugo tries to distract him by bringing to a ball a beautiful dancer. The dancer, who becomes the triumph of the occasion, is a susceptible maiden in her own right. She not only breaks up all the cynical romances around her, but loses her own heart as well.

Talent Show

Millsaps' first talent show, held on April 13th, was a great success. Directed by the SBA Spirit Committee's co-chairs Alicia Clifton and Andy Harper, this extravaganza of entertainment was certainly enjoyed by all. The show lasted for hours and packed the Recital Hall as administration, faculty, staff and students participated in this fun-for-all.

The talent show's program showcased acts that displayed the diversity and craziness of the Millsaps Student Body. For example, the singers included Senior Misty Skelton's piece "The Man I Love" and the male quartet, The Four Saps, who sang "I Want a Girl". Many other participants sang pieces that ranged from medlies to duets to solos. Not only did the audience enjoy such singing, but it also delighted in skits and other performances. Sam and Tic executed "A Bluegrass Dissertation", for instance. Freshman Price Williams, an accomplished pianist, played a medley that she arranged. Faculty also joined in the fun and led many acts. Dr. "J.R." Sallis, professor of history, performed a comic routine complete with a plaid suit, plastic nose and wig. One of the most talked about and popular acts was by the Student Affairs Office. Their skit, "A Day in the Life of Stupid Affairs", was truly exemplary of the Millsaps Community in which faculty and students work and relax together. The talent show's motto: "To laugh at oneself is a gift to all" was certainly experienced in those few hours in the Recital Hall.

The talent show not only served as a promising beginning to Major Madness but also was a great way to bring the Millsaps

Community together. The "community" spirit of the College is often talked about, and sometimes its existence is even questioned, but here for one night, the administration, faculty, staff and students joined together for hours of fun to start a four-day party. Hopefully, this type of activity will be indicative of the community spirit which can exist at Millsaps.

Sigma Tau Delta

Sigma Tau Delta is the English honorary on campus. English majors who have shown academic excellence as well as a strong interest in English are eligible for membership.

Chi Chi Chi

On March 3, 1966, Millsaps College tapped in members to its first chemistry honorary, Chi Chi Chi. Due to lack of interest the chapter became dormant. However, last year four students proposed the idea of becoming active once again, and the honorary was revived. Qualifications for membership require a student to have 12 to 20 hours of chemistry with a G.P.A. of 3.0 in chemistry and overall, or 21 or more hours of chemistry with a G.P.A. of 2.8 in chemistry and overall.

Eta Sigma Phi

Eta Sigma Phi, Millsaps' classics honorary, welcomes into its fellowship students of Latin and Greek who are dedicated to studying the ideals of classical civilization. Millsaps' chapter was founded in December of 1935. Catherine Freis is the faculty sponsor and the annual Classics Banquet at her home is eagerly awaited by all members. Other activities include films or special lectures on classical studies and the Greek Symposium. Criteria for membership are a 3.0 after three semesters of classics and a 3.0 overall.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega is a national dramatics honorary. It recognizes students students who have made a substantial contribution to the theater. Students are selected on the basis of the time they have contributed both on stage and backstage. Each year Alpha Psi Omega sponsors the Millsaps Players Banquet where awards are given to the best performers and backstage workers.

Omicron Delta Kappa, National Leadership Honor Society, was founded December 3, 1914 at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia. The Pi Circle at Millsaps College was founded in the spring of 1926 as the sixteenth of what has grown to over 200 ODK circles nationwide. Members are selected based on leadership in five major phases of student life, and the circle includes not only students but also faculty, alumni and administrators. Omicron Delta Kappa continued its active role on campus during the 1987-88 school year through the sponsorship of various events such as Tap Day, a reception in January for transfer students, the Freshman Man and Woman of the year award and a Faculty Recognition Luncheon. The highlight of the year was the celebration of the seventy-fifth ODK National Convention in Lexington, Kentucky in March, which several members attended. We are grateful to our faculty and alumni advisors for their gracious support through another outstanding year.

Pi Delta Phi

Pi Delta Phi, the national French Honorary, recognizes achievement in the study of the French language and literature. Students who have a minimum of 18 hours in French as well as a high G.P.A. are eligible for membership.

Sigma Lambda

Founded by Omicron Delta Kappa in 1936, Sigma Lambda is a leadership honorary which recognizes sophomores and juniors who have taken advantage of a wide range of activities available to them early in their college career. The purpose of the organization is to serve as a forum for concerns. Requirements for membership include a 2.8 cumulative G.P.A. as well as campus and community service involvement in athletics, religious activities, student government, performing arts, and campus activities.

First Row: Camille Davidson, Tracy Applewhite, Carole Woods, Maret Sanders, Dasha Cummins, Bubba Cummins, Jeff Bruni, Anne Dye, Lisa Loughman, Third Row: Dr. Theodore Ammon, Angela Dudley, Dwight Collins, Traci Savage, Cheryl Brooks, Bob Lancaster, Laurie Billups.

Beta Beta Beta

Beta Beta Beta was established at Millsaps College in 1988. It is a national honor society for students in the biological sciences. The purposes of Tri-Beta are to stimulate sound scholarship, promote the dissemination of scientific truth, and to encourage the investigation of the life sciences. Monthly meetings are held to discuss new ideas, research, and other material pertinent to biology and related sciences.

The largest number of students in recent memory participated in the 1987-1988 Millsaps Singers. A mini-tour of Mississippi churches highlighted the year. The Arts and Lecture concert was held March 26th and featured William Warfield as narrator, for Arthur Honegger's King David. Other concerts included the Feast of Carols during Christmas, Ringing the Christian Faith and a benefit concert. A select group of Singers closed the year with an extraordinary trip to Europe. Dr. Coker and thirty members of the Singers departed May 10 to sign and sightsee in Southern Germany and Austria. Highlights of the tour included concerts at Ester Hazy Palace and Neumunster Church.

T R O U B A D O U R S

The 1987-1988 Troubadours, under the guidance of music director Dr. Tim Coker and choreographer Linda Mann wowed audiences during the year with classic Broadway show tunes and fancy footwork. With a repertoire that included selections from Rogers and Hammerstein, Little Shop of Horrors and Berkley Square, the Troubadours were popular with young and old alike. They sang for crowds at Greenwood United Methodist Church, River Hills Country Club, Hinds Community College — Raymond, and for the kids at St. Andrews Episcopal School.

Alpha Kappa Alpha has had a fun-filled year of service! The chapter participated in a blood drive at the V.A. Medical Center to contribute to an experiment. They have also sponsored a needy family in the Jackson area and made their Christmas and Thanksgiving a little more special. The girls have done various other projects on campus and in the college community as well.

Omicron Gamma Founding: Oct. 23, 1981

Upholding the aims and traditions of this great fraternity can often prove to be a hard and demanding task, especially when there is a limited number of members. Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity has often boasted about its major accomplishments with the Boys Scouts of America as well as the Teen Father's Program. On the local level, the Omicron Gamma Chapter felt both a human and compassionate desire to help raise money for Debra Smith, a fellow student at Jackson State University who was in desperate need of a delicate liver transplant. Members of the chapter found great pleasure in helping someone else who was in dire need.

This year, the chapter sponsored its first participant in the Alpha Phi Alpha State Miss Black and Gold Contest. Melissa McLean represented the chapter well. Even though she did not come out on top, the chapter still considers her a winner and found the experience worthwhile. Following the competition, the chapter jumped right into its only pledge class of the year. While it was a lengthy and tiresome process, the fraternity was pleased to welcome Casey Ferrell into the realm of the first nationally founded Black Fraternity.

Gamma Zeta Founding: October 4, 1986

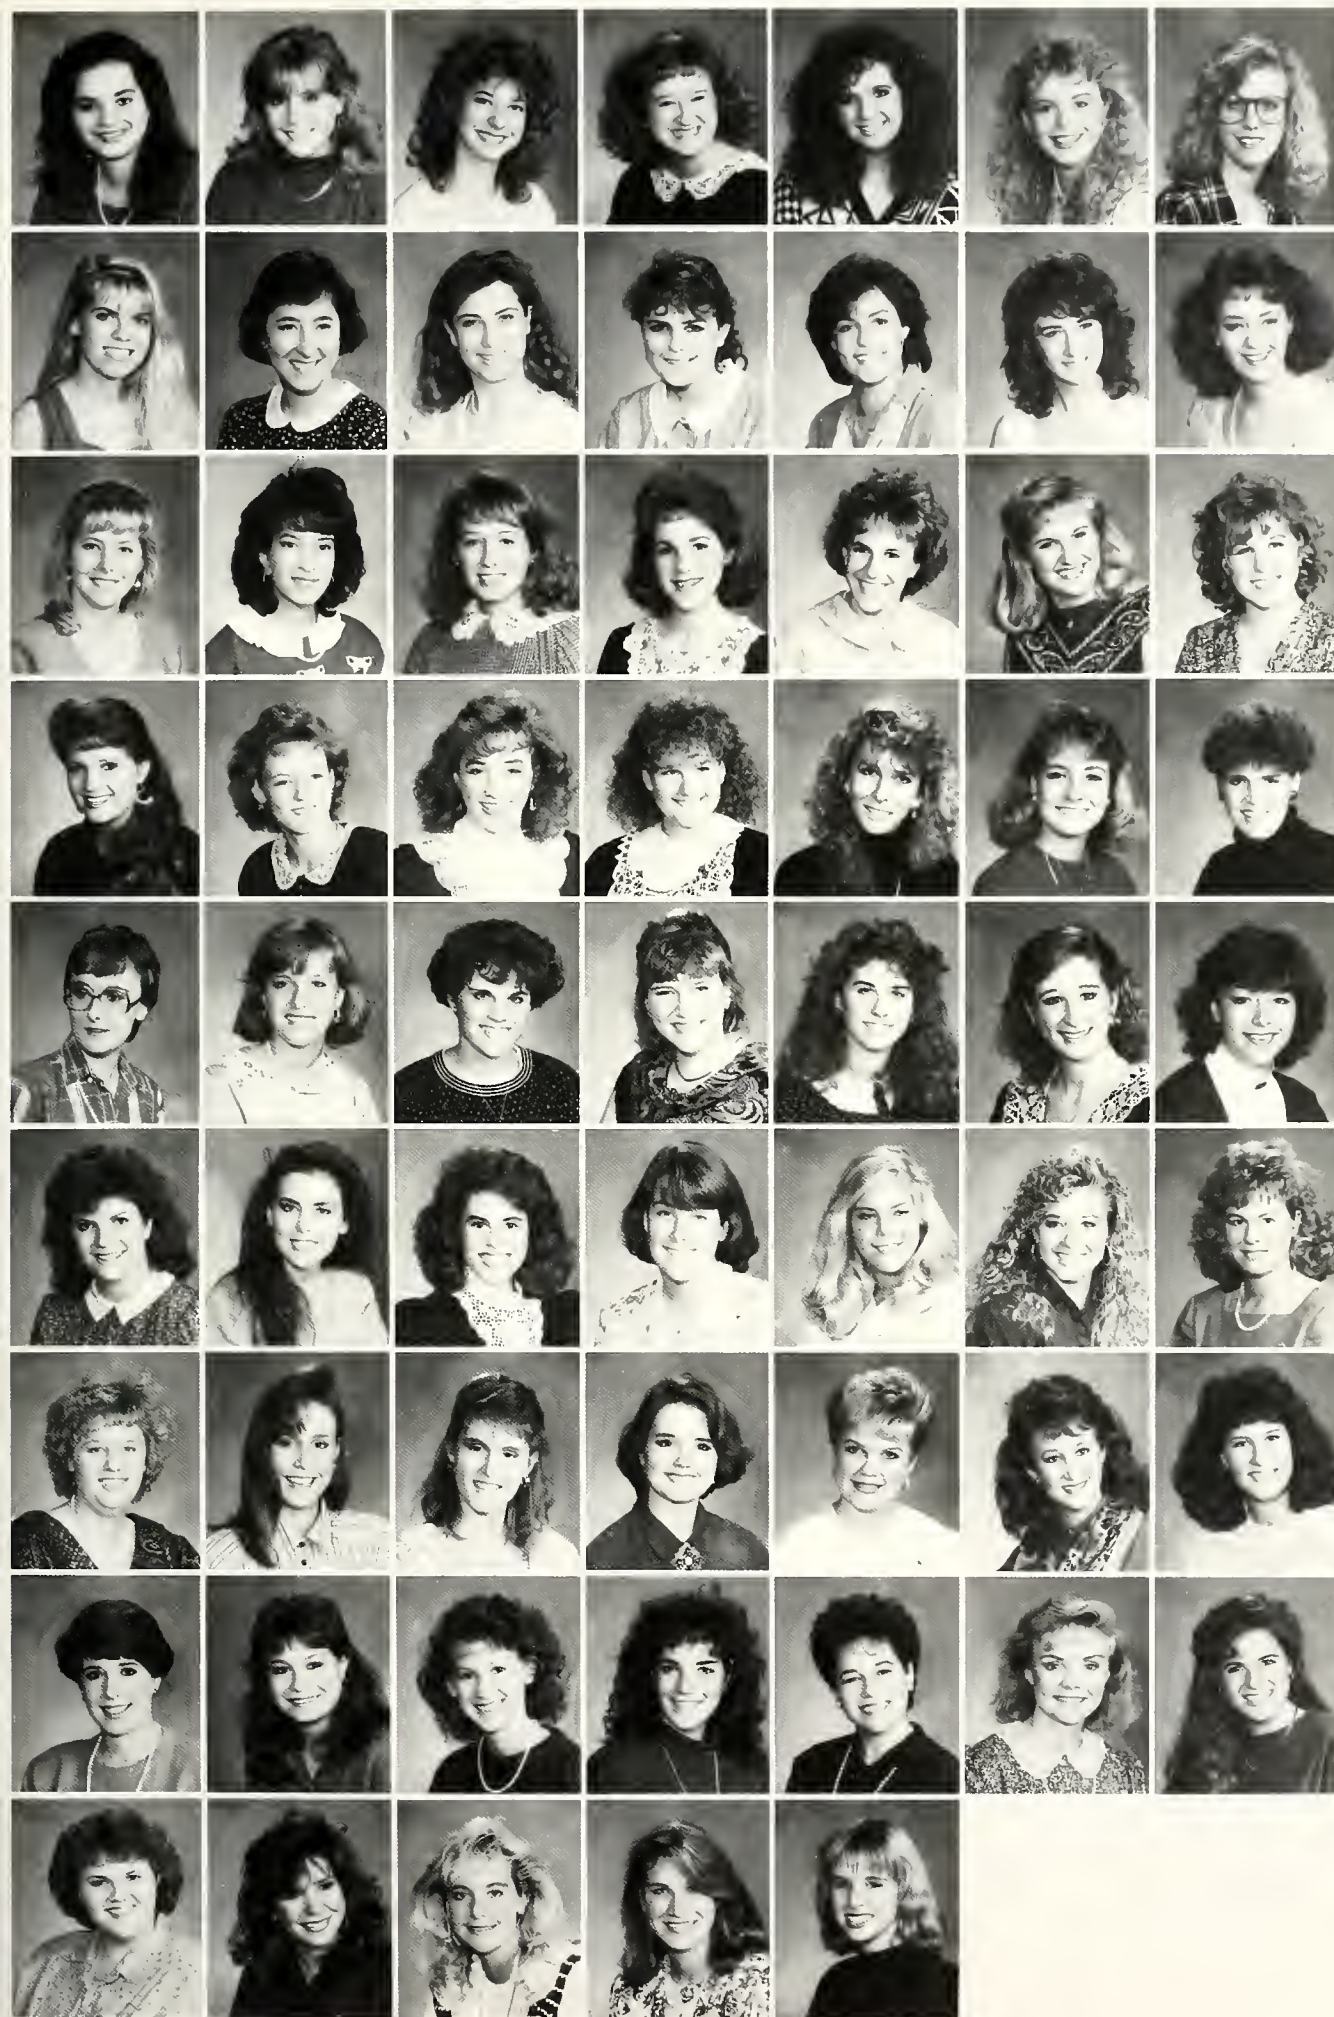

The Gamma Zeta chapter of Delta Delta Delta ended the 1987-88 school year with fond memories of parties, sisterhood and friendships. In October the chapter held their annual Fall Party. The theme was "A French Quarter Fest." The Pledge class also held a Christmas Party for the children of the chapter's alumnae. Tri Delta participated in fall intramurals, soccer, volleyball, and basketball, receiving the first place trophy in basketball. To end the fall semester the chapter held Sleighbell Day to benefit their national philanthropy, the Children's Cancer Fund. To begin the Spring semester, the second annual Moonlight Masquerade Formal was held. At this time Barry Beck, Sam Field, and Mike Morlan were named Delta Gents. In March another party was held for the alumnae's children, an Easter Egg Hunt. The chapter's major project for the spring semester was the formation of a Tri Delta SADD Chapter. The chapter was started with a campus wide presentation in March. The project will have its major kick-off next year with an outreach into the Jackson Community through the school systems. Finally there was a brunch held in honor of the Senior member of the sorority. The Gamma Zeta chapter ended the school year with anticipation of Tri Delta's 100th anniversary in November of 1988.

Chi Delta Founding: March 31, 1934

The 1987 school year was another great year for Chi Delta. The arrival of thirty-five wonderful pledges in the fall was only a part of the many changes seen in Chi Omega. The chapter not only changed faces with new officers and pledges, but the lodge itself acquired a new appearance with many improvements and additions, including the scholarship trophy both semesters!

Activities included record breaking blood drives for the Mississippi Blood Services both semesters, as well as collecting food during Thanksgiving for a local women's shelter. Several Chi Omegas volunteered their time at the Methodist Rehabilitation Center for children, and many helped work for the Jerry Lewis telethon. Chi Omega also maintained their position as one of the top callers in the student telephone campaign.

Parties for the year included the annual Owlman in the fall, and the addition of the new Owlmen: Bubba C., Tim Gates, Barry G., Greg S., Tommy S., and Judd T. Second semester brought the second annual Eleusinian Ball and the first crawfish party at the reservoir at the end of the semester for a final farewell before summer.

Flowers: crimson rose and magnolia

National Founding:

Dec. 21, 1865

Alpha Mu Founding:

1987-88 was another excellent year for the men at the Kappa Alpha Mansion as they excelled in nearly every activity they participated in. The Model Initiation team showed the best initiation ever seen at the National Convention. Bid Day was another coup for the Southern Gentlemen as 24 of 26 bids were accepted. With the fine leadership of David Coffey, the national undergraduate chairman; Mark Loughman, the president; and Grant Fox, the pledge trainer; KA was able to demonstrate itself not only as a leader on campus but also on the national level, characterized by a travelling evaluator/advisor as a chapter that "reloads, not rebuilds." Brotherhood rallies, Mr. Wells' cookouts, and the Sweethearts' functions for the entire year helped maintain and strengthen the camaraderie among us. The pledge program, a through product of Brother Fox's ingenuity, was a new dimension to Alpha Mu that helped to solidify an already superior group of freshmen. Intramurals have always been well participated in by Alpha Mu and 1988 was not exception as KA took the Intramural championship trophy. But while athletics are always fun as well as important, scholarship always has top priority at KA as we took the scholarship trophy with the highest G.P.A. in recent history. But all work is no fun and the KAs have as much or more fun than anyone. No Theme parties, Black and White, Initiation, Toga, Valentine, and of course, Old South — the best party of the year — were among the many social events that put the fun back into college. With Brother Ponder, Pritchard, and Wall to lead us into 1988-89, KA will once again be among the top on campus and in the nation.

"Time after time (snap, snap) ... year after year (snap, snap)" ... Spunky and the Embarrassing Stains ... Shelby "Charger" Hazzard ... "si aqui" ... The Breakfast Club ... National Founding: October 23, 1897
Mu Chapter Founding: Sept. 25, 1914

Mu chapter of Kappa Delta started 1987-1988 off with a bang before school had even begun. On July 6 at the 47th National Kappa Delta convention in New Orleans, we received the Council Award. It is given every two years to the top KD chapter in the nation. We were very excited and proud of this honor. In October, a reception was held here at Millsaps in honor of our chapter. National President Corre Anding Stegall and National Secretary Dianne Leferney McDowell were on hand to present us with our award, an engraved silver punch bowl. Several alumnae, students, and members of the administration were also there.

On Bid Day, August 29, we welcomed thirty-five new, wonderful pledges into our home. They all came from different places and backgrounds, but each had something special to offer. With lots of hard work and enthusiasm, they have been a tremendous asset to our chapter and also to the campus. Like other members, they became involved in Student Senate, Millsaps Singers, various organizations, and much more.

It has truly been an exciting and eventful year for Mu chapter with Big Sis/Lil Sis, "Jungle Love" Fall Party, and White Rose Week, which was concluded by initiation. KD Shamrock Project, which raises money to help prevent child abuse, was a huge success. Other fun activities were White Rose Formal, an Easter Egg Hunt for children of alumnae, and our Project Excellence retreat "Hawaiian Style."

Local Founding: Nov.

The past year, to say the least, has been quite successful for Kappa Sigma. Our brothers have participated in numerous community projects that have benefited a great many people. From skating parties with the children of the Methodist Children's Home to a Golf-a-thon to aid the Kidney

Foundation, we have attempted to be of service to as many people as possible. But not to be outdone in the social realm, our parties of the last year have been the envy of the campus with our Founder's Day in New Orleans and our three-day South Seas celebration. Our members also made a journey to the University of Florida where they placed second in the Regional Kappa Sigma Softball Tournament. By winning the Millsaps Telephone Campaign, we showed our commitment to the campus. If next year is as fun and productive as the last, then our reputation will be outstanding once again.

Lambda Chi Alpha

Colors: Purple, Green and Gold

Motto: Not without labor

National Founding: Nov. 2, 1909

Theta Eta Founding: Dec. 20, 1924

Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, the second largest fraternity in the world and the largest at Millsaps, provides the complete college experience for its members. Theta Eta Chapter, with 109 men, has grown over the years to become one of the strongest Lambda Chi Chapters in the nation. This past year the chapter won three national fraternity awards: the Bruce Hunter-McIntosh Award for Chapter Excellence, the Campus Involvement-Outstanding Achievement Award and the Tozier-Brown Public Affairs Project Award.

Millsaps Lambda Chis are active both on campus and in the Jackson community. Lambda Chis participate in varsity and intramural sports, student government, honoraries, publications, teaching assistantships and campus committees. This involvement is from president of ODK to yearbook editor. Its strong involvement on campus places the men of Lambda Chi in the center of campus life. Lambda Chis involvement in the community ranges from hosting an Easter egg hunt at a local orphanage to implementing a food drive which raised over 24,000 pounds of food for the needy in Mississippi. Thus Lambda Chi Alpha's involvement and impact stretches beyond the Millsaps campus into the Jackson community where their presence is also well known and highly respected.

Along with campus and community involvement the chapter promotes brotherhood, individuality, and scholarship. Lambda Chis at Millsaps are known for their unity amongst diversity — with members from lands as distant as France to as close as Louisiana. Lambda Chi Alpha provides the atmosphere for one to become a socially well-rounded individual. Theta Eta's quest for scholarship places it with one of the highest GPA's of all the Lambda Chi chapters in the nation. Scholastic achievement varies from the president of the chemistry honorary to participants in the Ford Fellowship program. Lambda Chis are constantly striving to attain their highest potential.

But along with hard work comes hard play, and that is another thing that the Lambda Chis at Millsaps are known for doing. Parties such as "Mount Olympus," "Crescent Ball," "Winter Fest," "Throw Down II," and many others kept the Lambda Chi house rocking throughout the year. There is also an annual canoe trip and crawfish boil that allows one to escape from the rigors of academic life. Sorority swaps at the first of the year introduce the men of Lambda Chi Alpha to the women of Millsaps sororities.

The complete college experience is Lambda Chi Alpha. It's heritage is built on human vision, understanding, idealism and honest friendship.

This has been a wonderful, fun and very busy year for Phi Mu, and we've had a ball! Chapter events first semester included our Second Annual Phi Canoe Trip, the Phi Halloween Party, our Generic Party, and the Party "Til the Cows Come Home." We gave a Talent Show for the patients at the V.A. Hospital and enjoyed a day at the zoo with children from the Bethlehem Children's Center. At Homecoming Phi Mu won the best float and spirit awards, and Jennifer Coe was named Homecoming Queen. Second semester included our formal, the Enchantress Ball and our New Year's in the Spring Party where we proudly announced new big brothers Norton Geddie, Parke Pepper, Ricky Ladd and Bryan Pratt. We had a successful evening with the Student Telephone Campaign for the Annual Fund and had a guest speaker come to the campus to speak on stress. We also enjoyed an Easter Egg Hunt at the Bethlehem Center and selling buttons for the Children's Hospital at the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

Phi Mu is proud to play a role in all campus activities, academic and social. Phi Mu's are in many honoraries including ODK and Sigma Lambda and sing with the Millsaps Singers. Toni Cappiello is a Troubador, Angie Belzer a cheerleader and LXA Little Sister, Susie Farme a Senator, Amy Ridlehoover a PKA Little Sister and Kathryn Gunter, Melissa Brown and Jeannie Maddy SAE Little Sisters. Our Lady Majors include: Mindy Bowman and Erin Clark, basketball; Mindy, Vaness Bonsteel, Kim Tadlock, Lynn Dagle, Stephanie Richards, and Amy (manager), soccer; and Teresa Hultz; tennis. We had five Resident Assistants this year: Erin Clark, Toni Cappiello, Jennifer Coe, Chrissy Hamilton, and Alicia Beam. Other activities included intramural sports, CMT and so much more!

This year has been an eventful one for Pi Kappa Alpha. The dedication of our new house was a great way to begin the year. Alpha Iota had an excellent rush with 35 great new pledges. Under the good leadership of president Don Mosley, we received a Chapter Excellence award from National. Community service projects included: Operation Shoestring to renovate community buildings and helping to organize the March of Dimes Biathlon. During football season, we came in second in the Homecoming float contest.

The spring began with our chapter hosting the Delta Regional Convention for all Pike chapters in the South. Other spring successes were winning first place in our division for the school Telephone Campaign and being awarded the intramural soccer trophy. At Cot-tonball, we elected six new Little Sisters: Cory, Eileen, Amy, Janet, Susan, and Michelle—and Joanie was chosen our new Dreamgirl. This year we also held some incredible parties. Some of these were our annual pilgrimage to the Delta Bluesfest, a great Old North, the first annual Ed head party, the Green Eggs & Ham KA/PKA party, and we closed out the year with Pike's Peak Week.

Colony Founding: August 30, 1986

This academic year proved to be a successful one for our Colony. In the fall we held our first rush here at Millsaps College, picking up an excellent pledge class of which we are very proud.

We also threw four very successful and entertaining theme swaps with the sororities. Our second annual hayride in Ackerman, Ms. proved to be not only a great party but also a well-deserved retreating for all involved.

The Colony's pledge class, under the direction and guidance of Sam Field, solicited monies and donations for the A.R.K. program of the Mississippi Children's Home Society Association. The A.R.K. is an alcohol/drug rehabilitation program for youths.

This year our Colony held its first Paddy Murphy, an annual party of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity nationwide. This gave us the chance to use our prized acquisition, a black 1966 Cadillac hearse.

All in all, the 1987-1988 year proved to be an exciting and progressive one for us as we work toward our installation as a chapter of the largest and wealthiest fraternity in the world, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

The 1987 Majors: Driven by the will to win

The 1987 Millsaps Majors football team, which included eighteen returning players and thirty freshmen and transfers, was a team of contrasts. It was a team where young inexperienced players were counted on at several key positions while veteran players filled other positions with confidence and leadership. The 1987 Majors could be characterized as a team driven by the . . . will to win.

The Millsaps Majors, in their season opener, met the Tenn. Wesleyan Bulldogs and shut them out for the second consecutive year by a score of 31-0. The Majors jumped out to a 12-0 first quarter lead on a pair of touchdowns by quarterback Chad Marks and wide receiver Darrin Estes; Millsaps went on to rack up totals of 258 rushing yards on forty-nine carries and 138 passing yards on twelve completions. Leading the Millsaps receivers, Estes had seven catches for ninety-one yards rushing and one touchdown. Estes, who led the nation among Division III punters last season, punted four times for 209 yards and a fifty-two yard average. Defensively, the Majors allowed only eight completions on twenty-two attempts, caused three fumbles, sacked the quarterback once and intercepted one pass.

In the second game of their season the Majors defeated Division II NAIA powerhouse Union College 31-9. In a game which on paper seemed to be a mismatch, with Union College seemingly superior, the Majors showed a will to win which drove them to victory. Union College, a team with over one hundred players on its roster and ranked eighteenth in the nation NAIA Division II, was able to score first but immediately fell behind the Majors and never regained the lead. The Majors defense, which was a key part of the victory, allowed the Bulldogs only twenty-six yards rushing in the first half and forced a loss of yardage in the second half. Millsaps intercepted a pass and sacked the quarterback twice. Offensively, the Majors, who had 391 total offensive yards were led in rushing by Jerry Leonard, Todd Thriffley, and Andy Mansukhani, who had 113, seventy-four, and fifty-one yards rushing respectively.

Leonard, along with Buddy Bass, ran for two touchdowns and one touchdown respectively. Quarterback Rusty Davis led the team in passing, completing five of twelve passes for fifty-seven yards and no interceptions.

The Majors, in their first loss of 1987, fell to the University of the South Tigers in a close game by a final score of 17 to 13. The winning touchdown, scored by the Tigers, was scored in the closing seconds, leaving no time for the Majors to drive down the field for another score. Millsaps struck first in the game on an early two yard touchdown run by Buddy Bass. The Tigers replied almost immediately with seven points of their own. The Majors came back to take the lead on a sixty yard touchdown pass from Rusty Davis to Steve Levee. Defensively, the Majors played tough causing three fumbles and sacking the Tigers' quarterback twice. They held the Tigers to only ninety-five yards in total rushing, including fifty-seven yards lost in rushing.

The Majors, in the first of two consecutive road trips, defeated the Trinity University Tigers 33 to 10. The game, which remained scoreless through most of the first half, shaped up early to be a battle of the defenses. In the second quarter, the Tigers scored their only touchdown. As if on a signal, the Millsaps offense opened up to score fourteen points before the half. These scores came on touchdowns of thirteen and three yards each, by Buddy Bass and Jerry Leonard respectively. The score at the half was 14 to 10 after Trinity kicked a thirty-seven yard field goal with seconds left in the half. Where the first half had been a seesaw battle of the defenses, the second half was all Millsaps. The Majors last three scores came on a thirty yard pass from Rusty Davis to Darrin Estes, a nine yard run by Davis, and another pass from Davis to receiver Mike Brown. Todd Triffley and Jerry Leonard led the Majors in rushing with fifty-two yards on fourteen carries, and forty yards on twelve carries respectively. The Majors' receivers were led by Darrin Estes and Chris Hemphill, who had one catch for thirty yards and one catch for twenty-eight yards respectively. Defensively, the Majors were led by Scott Green who had fourteen tackles, including seven unassisted. Aubrey Falls also contributed with one fumble recovery and one interception. Another contributor to the Majors' defensive efforts was punter Darrin Estes, who had the second longest punt of his career, seventy-two yards. Finally, Clay Ranager blocked a crucial field goal try by Trinity, which set up a Millsaps touchdown.

The Majors, facing their perennial rivals, the Rhodes College Lynxcats, lost by a final score of 22 to 15. The game, which started out with a seven point Millsaps lead early on, was played very much in the air. Quarterbacks Rusty Davis and Jody Caraccioli led the offense in total offensive yards. Davis had twenty-five attempts, twelve completions, and one interception for seventy-four yards; while Caraccioli threw three times and completed two for sixty-four yards. The Majors' only two touchdowns were scored by Jerry Leonard and Rusty Davis with runs of one yard and thirty-nine yards respectively. One highlight of the game was the six punts by Darrin Estes for 224 yards. Estes was ranked second in the nation among NCAA Division III punters that week.

Against Central Methodist, the Majors dominated in just about every facet of the game. The Majors had 172 yards rushing, 216 yards passing, and forty-three yards in returns. On defense, the Majors had three quarterback sacks and four fumble recoveries. The final score was 24 to 7 in Millsaps favor. In the game, the Majors were led in rushing by Jerry Leonard, who had twelve carries for eighty-three yards and one touchdown. Buddy Bass had forty-eight yards on sixteen carries and two touchdowns. In passing, Rusty Davis led the team with thirty attempts and twenty completions for 208 total yards. Catching passes for the Majors were Mike Hester, Mike Brown, Darrin Estes, Jerry Leonard, Buddy Bass and Chris Hemphill. Hester and Brown had four catches for a total of fifty-nine yards and five catches for a total of forty-seven yards respectively. Defensively, the Majors were led by Clay Ranager and Burt Amison. Ranager had six tackles, six assists, and one fumble recovery. Amison had five tackles, two assists, two quarterback sacks, and three fumble recoveries. Also contributing was Chuck

Clayton, who had three tackles, one assist, and one sack.

Millsaps, in their seventh game of the season, was matched up against the Lambuth College Eagles. From the beginning of the game, it was apparent that the Eagles faced an uphill battle and were extremely outclassed by a very inspired Millsaps team. The Majors, who scored in all four quarters, including twenty-eight points in the second quarter, ran and passed exceptionally well. Millsaps first scored on a sixty-six yard pass from quarterback Rusty Davis to receiver Darrin Estes for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Early in the second quarter Davis again passed for a touchdown, this time on a nine yard toss to Steve Levee. Minutes later, Chuck Clayton blocked a Lambuth kick and scored the third touchdown for the Majors with a little more than four minutes left in the quarter and then again with less than a minute left in the quarter. These two touchdowns came on a five yard pass to Todd main Thriffley and a three yard run by Darrin Estes. This put the score at thirty-five to nothing in favor of the Majors as the half ended. The Majors scored twice more in the game, once in the third quarter, and once in the fourth quarter. The first touchdown was on a Davis to Estes passing combination and the second on a one-yard run by senior Scott Christian. This left the final score at 49 to 7 in Millsaps' favor. Millsaps was led in rushing by Todd Thriffley and Scott Christian, who had eleven carries for sixty yards and eight carries for thirty-seven yards respectively. As a team, the Majors rushed forty-one times for 115 yards and two touchdowns. In the air, quarterbacks Rusty Davis and Jody Caraccioli passed twenty times and completed thirteen for 182 yards total and four touchdowns. Davis had his best game of the year with fifteen attempts and nine completions for 128 yards and three touchdowns. The Millsaps receivers were led by Darrin Estes who had seven catches for 129 yards and two touchdowns. Steve Levee had two catches for twenty-eight yards and one touchdown. On defense, the Majors sparkled behind the solid leadership of senior Clay Ranager, who had two interceptions for fifty-two yards and led the team in tackles. The Majors also blocked one kick, recovered one fumble, and had several sacks. They allowed the Eagles only four yards rushing and forty-four yards passing.

The Majors, in their final home game of the season, defeated Washington University 28 to 16. The Majors, who scored once in each quarter, clenched their tenth consecutive winning season. Senior Darrin Estes, who led the team in rushing with fourteen carries for forty-two yards and two touchdowns, also caught three passes for thirty yards and one touchdown. Estes led the team in scoring with eighteen points. The only other score came on a nine yard pass to Jerry Leonard. Leonard caught five passes for a total of sixty-six yards and one touchdown. The Majors' offensive attack, which came mainly from the air, was led by Rusty Davis. Davis passed thirty-one times, completing eighteen for two touchdowns. Mike Brown led the Majors in receiving with three catches for eighty-four yards and Mike Hester pulled down three passes for forty-seven yards. Also contributing a season high ninety-four yards on four kickoff returns was Todd Thriffley. Defensively, Millsaps, ranked tenth in the nation the previous week, recovered two fumbles and intercepted one pass. Tommy Ponder and Chuck Clayton recovered the fumbles and Aubrey Falls intercepted the pass, returning it for twenty-one yards.

Millsaps then traveled to Tennessee to play the Lane College Dragons. The Majors were victorious by a final score of 24 to 23. Offensively, the Majors were led in rushing by Todd Thriffley and Andy Mansukhani. Thriffley had six rushes for 104 yards and one touchdown. Mansukhani had fourteen rushes for seventy-five yards. In passing, Rusty Davis attempted twenty-four passes and completed eleven for 144 yards and three touchdowns. He threw four passes to Darrin Estes who had seventy yards total. Receivers Mike Brown, Jerry Leonard, and Todd Thriffley also contributed with one touchdown apiece. Defensively, the Majors had four sacks, recovered two fumbles, and blocked one extra point. Scott Green had two of the sacks and the blocked kick, Clay Ranager had one of the fumble recoveries, and Jason Walenta had the other two sacks and the fumble recovery.

The Thrill of Victory The Agony of Defeats

The Millsaps' mens' soccer team, under the coaching of George Gober, returned ten of eleven starters from last years 11 of 8 team. Some of the key returning players were top scorers Mike Morlan and Tony Moore. Another important returning person was Kevin Brune, who led the 1986 team in scoring. He returned this year as assistant coach. Key additions to the team were freshman standouts Micky Brown from Jackson and Todd Brown from Memphis. The 1987 Majors faced the toughest schedule in their history, including two top twenty teams at the beginning of the season. The Majors started off the season with a win over Hines College, then fell to nationally ranked Centenary in an impressive team effort. From that point on, a season of promise had turned sour for the Majors as they often played equal or better than the opposition, but could never quite finish with a win. The highlight of the season was a victory over regionally ranked Emory University in an awesome battle that was decided by the third goal in the final ten seconds of the game, scored by Tony Moore. Though the Majors were disappointed with the season, many returnees will provide hope for a better team next year.

Women's Soccer Comes Into Its Own

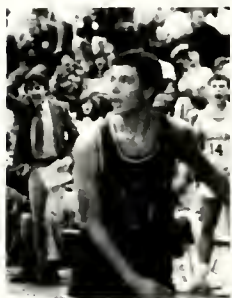

The 1987 Lady Majors soccer team returned eight of the season's eleven starters. The top five scorers from the 1986 13-3-2 team were among those who returned. The Lady Majors went through a drastic change this year when they went from from a spring to a fall schedule. Eventhough this only gave them a three month rest from season to season, they still remained competitive. This year the Lady Majors compiled a record of seven wins, eight losses, and one tie. They faced the toughest schedule of their history this season. All of their opposition this year were varsity or school-supported club teams. The captains for this year's team senior Mindy Bowman and sophomore Meme Soho. The Lady Majors were under the guidance of Coach George Gober who coached both Men's and Women's soccer teams simultaneously during the fall.

A Year of Highs and Lows

The 1987-88 Millsaps Majors Men's Basketball team was a young team with no seniors, four juniors, two sophomores, and seven freshmen. The team was led by its juniors, Jimmy Carr, Tim Wise, Ted Hunt, and Tyrone McDonald. Carr Led the team in total points with 517, total three point goals with 83, and three-point shot percentage with 49.1%. Wise also lead the team in steals with 46 (almost two per game). Hunt was thirty-four of forty from the free-throw line, placing him second on the team in free-throw percentage. Hunt was also second on the team in three-point goals with twenty-three, behind only Jimmy Carr. The rebound leader on the team was Tyrone McDonald, who had 159 on the season and averaged 6.11 per game.

Other highlights of the season included playing in front of over five thousand in a tough loss to Division I University of Alabama-Birmingham and tournament victories in Trinity University. Individually, Carr had an outstanding season, in which he was placed on three all-tournament teams including the Rhodes College, Millsaps, and Trinity Tournaments. In the Trinity Tournament, Carr broke the tournament record for most points scored in a game, and he accomplished this in the first-half of the game. He also joined the ranks of Millsaps players who have over one-thousand point in their collegiate careers. Nationally, he was ranked in the top ten among Division III players in three-point shots per game.

Women's Basketball

Lady Majors Come Alive With A Strong Winning Season

Highlights of the 1987-88 Millsaps Lady Majors Basketball season included their best record ever at 14 and 7 and a top-ten ranking among teams in the NCAA Southern Region. The Lady Majors, under the coaching of J.R. West, were also victorious for the third straight year in the Millsaps Pepsi-Cola Invitational Tournament.

Individually, senior Mindy Bowman was ranked number one in the nation among NCAA Division III Women's Players in three-point field goals made, as well as number ten in three-point field goal percentage. Bowman had 4.1 three-point shots per game and had a 43.8% three-point field goal percentage.

The season also included strong victories over arch-rivals Rhodes College, 71-55, and the University of the South at Sewanee, 76-55. The Lady Majors outscored their opponents by an average of 9.3 points per game and out-rebounded them by an average of 10.6 rebounds per game.

Men's Tennis

The 1987-88 Millsaps Men's Tennis Team performed well as usual under the watchful eye of Coach Jim Montgomery. The team, as a whole, placed third in the NCAA Div. III Men's South Regional Finals. Individually, in the South Region, they placed three members in the final rankings. Junior Todd Helbling, at 9-14, placed third in singles in the Regional Finals. Helbling, 40th in the nation in singles at the end of the regular season, was in contention for a place in the National Finals until the last selections. In doubles, the team of Jay Ciaccio and Ed Yelverton with a record of 5-9 placed fifth in the Div. III South Region.

Women's Tennis

The 1987-88 Millsaps Women's Tennis Team, also under the direction of Coach Montgomery, had an excellent season. This included sending two team members, junior Yvette Edwards and sophomore Paige Carpenter to the Division III Women's National Tennis Tournament. Carpenter was also named to the Division III All-American team. Ending her season with a record of 22-7 in singles play, Carpenter was ranked first in singles in the Southern Region and fifth in doubles. Together with her doubles partner, Yvette Edwards, they amassed a season record of 18-6. Edwards herself, with a record of 18 wins and only 6 losses, was ranked ninth in singles. Both women advanced to the quarter final round of the National tournament in singles and together as a doubles team, but were eliminat-

Skill and Speed

The Millsaps Majors baseball team ended the 1988 season with a record of 14 wins and 13 losses. The Majors captured their winning season by sweeping the final 2 games of the year from Rust College. One of the highlights of the '88 season was when the Majors defeated both Aurora College and Elmhurst College. Both of these Illinois teams qualified for the 1987 playoffs and advanced past the regionals. The Majors also defeated Rust College and NAIA powerhouse, Springhill College.

The Majors were extremely talented both in the field and at the plate. Offensively, the Majors were led by Senior Bill Devlin who had a team high batting average of .368 and Tony Melvin who hit safely in 12 consecutive games. The Majors showed their offensive prowess with victories of 24-3, 11-0, and 10-0. Left: Millsaps power-hitter John Roberts.

Power and Style

The Majors' defense and the pitching staff combined for 5 shutouts. The pitching staff also had a 2.97 ERA. Senior Frank Martin led the staff with a 5-1 record while Junior Danny Hughes pitched 17 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings without having a run scored against him. Sophomore Gregg Raffo set a school record by striking out 15 batters in a single game.

The Majors were especially tough at home winning over 60% of the games and eight of their first eleven games. The Majors should continue in their winning ways under Head Coach Tommy Ranger, Assistant Coach Jim Page, and Graduate Assistant Steve Hancock.

This year, the Millsaps Golf Team competed in their first year of scheduled competitions. They started their year with the Delta State Invitational Tournament and went on to compete in invitational tournaments at Jackson State University, the University of the South at Sewanee, and Washington University. While still a young team, the members are looking forward to several years of continued progress as the team grows and matures. Golf Team Head Coach, Mary Ann Edge felt that "for a building year, the Majors did exceptionally well and showed great promise." Coach Edge is also the Head Coach of the Millsaps Men's and Women's Cross Country Teams, which also had a promising year in 1987.

Cross Country

The Millsaps Cross Country program, which previously had consisted of only a Women's squad, gained a Men's team this year. Both the teams were very young however and were going through the building process this year. Both of the teams competed in four races including: The University of Southern Mississippi Invitational, The Mississippi Intercollegiate Tournament, The Governor's Cup, and The Mississippi College Invitational.

The top two women's runners for Millsaps were Carah Lynn Billups and Lisa Loughman. Both finished consistently well including ninth and sixth places finishes overall in the Governor's Cup respectively. Loughman especially was consistent, finishing in the top twenty in all four races. Billups was awarded the 1988 Spirit Award for the Women's Team and Loughman was named Most Outstanding Runner for the second year in a row.

Of all the runners on the Men's Team, Tracy Griffin, who also served as student coach, was the most consistent runner. Griffin was named Most Outstanding Runner for 1988 for the Men's Team. Steve Anderson was the recipient of the 1988 Spirit Award for the Men's Squad. According to Coach Mary Ann Edge, "Considering the competition which both teams ran against, mostly Division I and II schools, we performed very well. We have a lot of talent on both of the teams and should continue to improve over the next few seasons."

Cheerleaders

Under the able leadership of co-captains Chris Powell, with three years experience, and Tracy Applewhite, in her second year cheering for the Majors, the cheerleaders attended the largest cheerleading camp in the nation at Memphis State. In their first camp attendance in three years, they won four Superior ribbons and one Excellent and brought home one spirit stick. The 1987-88 squad of Millsaps Majors cheerleaders was one of the finest Millsaps squads in recent years, due partly to the tumbling skills of Eric Bufkin and Greg Schwab.

The Majors had a re-election for basketball cheerleaders for the first time in several years and continued to lead and inspire the spirit of the Majors throughout the year.

Another first achieved this year for the squad was the one hour P.E. credit which was granted through the perseverance and determination of captains Chris Powell and Tracy Applewhite.

Lord, give me faith! — to live from day to day,
With tranquil heart to do my simple part,
And, with my hand in Thine, just go Thy way.

Lord, give me faith! — to trust, if not to know;
With quiet mind in all things, Thee to find,
And child-like, go where Thou wouldst have me go.

Lord, give me faith!—to leave it all to thee,
The future is Thy gift, I would not lift
The veil Thy Love has hung 'twixt it and me.

Independents . . . Are We Having Fun Yet?

For those who find the greek system "not for them", independence at Millsaps is a viable alternative. Although often viewed as a group which arises due to non-acceptance, these students are still making their mark on the Millsaps Community. Through positions of leadership on various committees, the SBA Senate, and extra curricular activities, independents are striving to improve the Millsaps' Experience for

Whether it is in student government, intramurals, or the Semi-Sporadic Holy Grail Parties, independents are making an impact. Who can forget the "Thursday Pizza let's forget Steak" night, the escapades of the "James Earl", the play by play commentaries by "Liz", or the Baton Rouge Gator Getaway Weekend? Do you remember the road trips to Mardi Gras, Lynyrd

New Teachers

New Teachers Add Diversity to Millsaps

A new assistant professor of education, Louis B. Gallien, received his B.S. from Baylor University and both his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina. He enjoys being part of a small liberal arts college in the south and finds that his extracurricular interests in various sports have coincided well with the interests of his students. Consequently he has been able to get to know some students outside his academic discipline which he finds very rewarding.

One of two new English teachers, Miss Lida Burris, has a B.A. from Millsaps and an M.A. from Tulane University. Miss Burris plans to continue her graduate work in the fall of 1988 and claims this year of teaching at Millsaps has been an invaluable professional experience for her. She has learned a great deal from her students and particularly from her colleagues some of whom she finds very good role models. After receiving her Ph.D. she hopes to continue teaching college.

Mrs. Betsy Folk, another Millsaps graduate and new addition to the English Department, received her M.A. from Vanderbilt University and since finished the necessary course work for a Ph.D. in English. Mrs. Folk believes in a stimulating class discussion instead of pure dictation as a way of learning. She wants to install creativity in her students as they analyze their writing and watch their skills develop. She enjoys the energy in learning at Millsaps and its trend towards research.

Yoko Baba comes from Kobe City, Japan by way of Oklahoma. She received her B.B.A. from Kwansai Gakuin University, Japan, an M.S. from Pittsburg State University, and an M.S.W., M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Oklahoma. Dr. Baba claims that outside of her work, her life is boring that, in fact, Sociology is her life. When asked what she wants to do if given time, Dr. Baba responded that she would like to visit another eastern country like China. However, Dr. Baba also adds that she just does not have the time.

New as a full-time voice instructor, Mrs. Cheryl Coker is certainly not a new face on campus. Mrs. Coker received her B.M.Ed. and M.M. at the University of Southern Mississippi and has spent the last three years teaching at Millsaps. To her, working with Millsaps students is quite a challenge requiring her to expand her knowledge in dealing with individual voices and personalities. This need coupled with the enthusiasm of the students provide a stimulating atmosphere for professional development and gratifying teaching experience.

One of the two new assistant professors of History, Patrick Delana, received his B.A. at Evergreen State College and his Ph.D. at Claremont Graduate School. Dr. Delana is interested in interdisciplinary studies which is what attracted him to Millsaps College. He likes the liberal arts school that is committed to the liberal arts and claims one of our prime attractions is the Heritage program. Dr. Delana has taught at Harvey Mudd College and Santa Ana College.

Edward Ryan received a B.E. from the University of Omaha, a B.S. and an MBA from Michigan State University and DBA from George Washington State University. Professor Ryan commenced his teaching career in 1975 after serving with the United States Air Force for twenty-five years. He believes that his Air Force career, including world-wide travel and operational control over Air Force courier (top secret) matters, gave him the insight necessary to teach and advise at the college level which he really enjoys.

Receiving his B.S. and M.S. at the University of Southern Mississippi and his Ph.D. at Oklahoma State University, Hugh J. Parker is now an associate professor of accounting. He has previously taught at the University of Southern Mississippi and also has ten years of experience as a public accountant; he is also a Gold Medalist on the CPA exam. Dr. Parker is his family's third generation to attend Millsaps.

The new instructor of mathematics, Sara Elizabeth Napp, received her B.S. at the University of Alabama and her MAT at Livingston University. Mrs. Napp believes math helps to develop one's thinking skills and allows one different ways of seeing things. Attracted by our reputation, Mrs. Napp feels fortunate to have the opportunity to work at "such a wonderful institution as Millsaps".

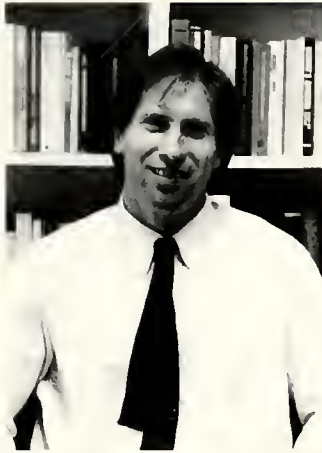

William A. Hailey, a new professor of Business Administration, received his B.B.A. at the University of Mississippi, his MBA at Loyola and his Ph.D. at the University of Kentucky. Aside from teaching, Dr. Hailey hopes to do research in the areas of quality assurance and management information systems. Dr. Hailey raced canoes for fourteen years and even competed nationally. He still enjoys flying down a river every now and then.

Dr. Cecilia Cornell, new assistant professor of history, received her B.S. from Western Oregon State College and her M.A. and Ph.D. from Vanderbilt University. As a long term goal, she wants to complete her book on the origins of the Cold War. She hopes to use her own research and writing to make teaching a process of mutual discovery for both teacher and student.

Thirty-Year Faculty

Experience Gained Through Time

Coach Mary Ann Edge began teaching at Millsaps in 1958. She received both her B.S. and M.S. from the University of Mississippi and her doctorate from the University of Southern Mississippi. Coach Edge teaches a variety of courses in health and physical education and has, during her time here, coached the Men's Golf team, the Women's Basketball team and the Cross Country team. She has tried to keep involved outside the school serving with many community organizations and with the Special Olympics. She really enjoys each new year with the challenge it brings in every new crop of students. She hopes that in some way she is able to help shape and develop each student that passes through her class or is on one of her teams. Coach Edge has seen this campus and student body really grow over the past thirty years. She likes the "new look" of Millsaps, and looks forward to many more rewarding years of teaching here.

Before joining the Millsaps faculty in 1950 Mr. Lance Goss received his A.B. from Millsaps and his A.M. from Northwestern University. Since then he has held the position of Director of the Millsaps Players. His credits, as Director of the Players, are long and distinguished; he even receives praise from drama critics throughout the state. The Players were the first group in the state to perform plays such as Death of a Salesman and A Streetcar Named Desire and also to produce various Broadway musicals on a regular basis. The Players' production of Hamlet in 1954 was the first in Mississippi to use the music of Lehman Engel in a production. This version of Hamlet was also called the finest presentation that Millsaps has given to the public in any form to that date. Two of the "more famous" individuals to come through the Players include Michael Beck and Allen Hunter.

John Guest has taught German to Millsaps students for the past 31 years. He received his A.B. from the University of Texas and M.A. from Columbia Univ., and he has done advanced study at New York University and Bonn University. One of the most decisive events in his life was the year that he spent in Vienna on a Fulbright Scholarship. It was during this time that he learned about German culture and the "meaning of civilization."

Wendell Johnson, now a Professor Emeritus, joined the Millsaps faculty in 1954 as a part-time professor of Geology and has since become Chairman of the Geology Department. He attended Kansas State University where he received both his B.S. and B.A. in Geology. A few of the Professional Societies to which he belongs include: Sigma Xi, Mississippi Academy of Sciences, Mississippi Geological Society and the Mississippi Gem and Mineral Society. He has helped to write a least eleven publications and has given numerous talks to various organizations.

Johnson has traveled to such places as Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Hawaii and several parts of North America and the Alps. Professor Johnson says that the greatest satisfaction in his career is the number of outstanding Geology majors he has taught and their mark in business, industry, teaching and many state and federal agencies.

Dr. Smauel Knox, now a Professor Emeritus, has been at Millsaps as a mathematics professor for 37 years. He received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Mississippi, and his Ph.D. from Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Knox has also studied at Oberlin College and at the University of Michigan. In addition, he has been Chairman of the Mathematics department since 1962. The professional societies he is a member of include Theta Nu Sigma, Pi Kappa Pi, ODK; he has also been chosen as Distinguished Professor of the year. Knox has contributed articles to the American Mathematical Monthly and other magazines. Dr. Knox served with the United States Marine Corps, as a radar technician in Guam, from February 1943 to June 1946. In his leisure time he enjoys woodworking, fishing, gardening and music.

Dr. Russell Levanway, Chair of the Psychology Department, earned his A.B. from the Univ. of Miami and his M.S. and Ph.D. from Syracuse University. He began teaching partly because it involved the counseling of emotionally upset students, but as he became more involved, he found that he was hooked to teaching itself, and not just to counseling. Soon afterward, he took the job at Millsaps in 1956 and began his tenure here. Dr. Levanway, during his time here, has made many observations about students' behavior and ability. He says that the students are in the best position to influence the quality of their education, and take control of a boring class and make it exciting. In his opinion, the students control the level of excitement that pervades in a classroom. One of the most interesting things, according to Dr. Levanway, is to see an average student transform into a "burning fire of scholarship."

Jonathan Sweat earned his B.S. and M.S. from the Julliard School of Music. He joined Millsaps in 1958 and in 1963 was awarded the Danforth Grant to pursue his study of music at the University of Michigan. He received his A.Mus.D. from the University of Michigan. In Michigan, Sweat gave many piano solos and chamber music recitals. While here at Millsaps, Mr. Sweat has taught classes in music theory and, of course, piano. He also enjoys giving the music lectures of the Heritage program. One of the highlights of his career came in 1985 when he was able to perform with the Millsaps Singers and the Jackson Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Beethoven's Fantasy for Piano, Choir and Orchestra. Once again, in the Spring of 1987, he returned on a sabbatical leave to the Julliard School of Music. He attended classes, lectures, recitals, concerts, operas and art museums during his stay in New York. This return is what he calls "an exciting time of renewal."

Editor's note

The production of this year's Bobashela would not have been possible had it not been for the many people who gave of their time and talents to create this publication. First, the Public Relations Department has been an invaluable resource providing advice and photographs to staff members. Contracted by the P. R. Department, the Communication Arts Company has freely provided for several color photos used in the introduction of the yearbook. Special thanks go out to the members of the Office of Student Affairs who aided us greatly in the day-to-day workings of the yearbook. Finally, I would like to thank all the members of the staff who put forth many hours of work even after school ended, especially Susan Lee and Bill Morris who were able to give the Bobashela such fine quality photographic prints throughout the year.
